

Indigenous Apprenticeships Program 2022

Voiceover:

Have you heard about the Indigenous Apprenticeships Program?

It's a great way to get a job in the Australian Public Service.

Apprentices work full-time in a government department or agency for 12 months and then get a permanent job.

Applications are now open for 2022. Next year it could be you!

You might work in administration or finance, human resources or IT. The possibilities are endless.

Some apprenticeships are office-based, others are more hands on.

We'll look at your skills and interests and find a role that's the right fit for you!

Apprenticeships are available all over Australia. You can tell us where you'd like to work and who you'd like to work for when you apply.

Don't worry. You'll get on-the-job training and lots of support. Each apprentice is teamed up with a buddy and an Indigenous mentor to help you when you start work.

How do you apply?

Go to servicesaustralia.gov.au/IAP and you can apply online.

What will your story be?
